Student Shooting Leads To Charges

By LARRY FULLERTON
Managing Editor

Efforts to improve relations between students and city police may be the result of a shooting incident at the Holiday Inn last Thursday night.

Timothy Donato, 23, Shaker Heights, is reported in very good to excellent condition at St. Vincent's Hospital, Toledo, with a bullet wound in the right shoulder. The bullet is to be removed today in a "very simple operation."

He was shot by Patrolman Evan Long after allegedly trying to run-down the patrolman with his car in the Holiday Inn parking lot.

According to police reports, a fraternity bachelor party was in progress in one of the second floor rooms and was causing a disturbance. Efforts to quiet the party by the Inn manager, Nick Hyduke, were unsuccessful, so he called the police.

Patrolman Long and Lt. Donald Wilcox arrived at about 12:30 a.m. and the lieutenant accompanied Mr. Hyduke to the room. Several groups of students passed the two men on the stairway, according to Mayor F. Gus Skibble.

Long remained downstairs near the front breezeway and when a sports car with three occupants started to leave the parking lot, he attempted to stop it.

The car, driven by Donato, had apparently been parked at the south end of the motel and when Long stepped into the path to halt the car, it did not stop.

After jumping out of the way of the car, which, reports say was traveling at a high rate of speed, Ptl. Long fired at the car, attempting to hit a tire. The shot missed, however, and he fired two warning shots over the car.

One of these bullets went through the convertible top of the car and struck Donato in the back right shoulder and went through to his right chest. However the bullet did not leave the body.

After Donato was hit, the car continued toward the exit, but stopped because it was blocked by a brown station wagon parked across the exit.

Donato was taken to Wood County Hospital and then transferred to the Toledo Hospital, due to the seriousness of his condition, the mayor said.

Charges of assault with a deadly weapon have been filed in Municipal Court against Donato by Ptl. Long.

Mayor Skibble answered the question of whether or not Long was right in firing at the car by saying that Donato's alleged act of trying to run-down Long with the car was a felony and in such cases an officer has the right to use whatever means he deems necessary.

In the motel room, the officers found one person, the student who had rented the room, and a considerable amount of liquor and beer -- "more than would be expected to be consumed by one person," the Mayor said.

Student Appeals, Receives 1-S-C

Until early last Thursday evening, Richard Neil Thornton thought that he would be inducted into the armed forces this Thursday.

On April 15, he received his induction greeting and orders to report to the Greyhound bus station. Thornton immediately appealed the induction to his local draft board. They met Monday, April 24 to decide his case.

"Well, I got it -- a 1-S-C. At least I can finish out the semester. I have 10 days to appeal my classification and ask for a 2-S. If I get it, I will be able to be graduated."

(Editor's Note: According to the Wood County Selective Service Board, any bona fide student will receive a 1-S-C deferment if he requests it.)

The 1-S-C deferment can be applied for only after the induction notice is served; and will remain effective until the end of the term in which he applied for the deferment.

Thornton, a junior in the College of Education, hopes to be graduated in June, 1968.

"I'll be glad to go then, but not now," he said.

Contest Clue 4

The fourth clue in the Spring Weekend "Hidden Name" contest is: HIS "POWER TOWER" WAS UNIVERSITY HALL.

The "Name" is of 1920 vintage and related to the theme of the weekend, "Remember When." It is written on a piece of paper and hidden somewhere on campus.

The next clue will be published in tomorrow's B-G News, with the last one appearing in Thursday's News.

The person finding the name should take it to the Student Activities Office on the third floor of the Union.

The prize is a free Spring Weekend for the winner and his or her date.

THIS IS the price of victory. In the tricycle race for sororities held in the Union oval, Alpha Chi Omega won the event, Alpha Phi was second, and Delta Zeta placed third.

Theta Chi placed second in the bike race, with 37 laps, while Alpha Tau Omega took third.

Selections Stalled

As reported in Friday's News, applicants for Student Court and Traffic Court justices were interviewed by Student Council Thursday night.

However, Council did not make any selections, so another meeting will be necessary.

The time for this meeting will be announced shortly.

Pass Loan Bill

With college costs going up in both private and state-assisted institutions, the student loan legislation pending in the Ohio legislature demands speedy passage and enactment.

The bill was approved by a 26-0 vote by the Ohio Senate Thursday and immediately sent to the Ohio House of Representatives.

Among the important features of the bill are the following items:

--A hike in the state's guarantee of loans to students by private financial institutions would be made from 80 to 100 per cent.

--The total outstanding amount of guaranteed loans to one student would be increased from $5,000 to $9,000.

--The amount of a single loan that may be guaranteed in a school year would remain at $1,000 for undergraduates but would increase to $1,500 for graduate or professional students.

--The loan insurance premium of one half of one per cent may be charged to the borrower. Presently it must be paid by the higher education institution or the lender.

--The maximum interest that may be charged on a guaranteed loan, excluding loan insurance premium, would be changed from five-and-a-half per cent to the federally authorized six per cent.

--Coverage under the student loan law would be extended to include students at approved vocational and technical as well as other post-secondary institutions.

The Ohio House would do well to swiftly pass the liberalized student loan legislation and present it for the Governor's signature.

Time is wasting. The need for more available funds for student loans is now.

Protester's Protest Protested

By MIKE KUHLIN
Columnist

Last week's protest against the Union of South Africa was the classic example of how Bowling Green's so called "radical" group works.

One student started the ball rolling by making the sign that was placed on the South African flag. He had with him another student who did not completely agree with the protest statement after it has been written but was talked into helping for reasons I still do not understand.

The sign was made.

Who was going to protest?

After all, a protest is not effective unless it is done in numbers.

"Don't worry," said the organizer, "we'll head down towards the south end of the Nest."

They never made it that far.

Five students volunteered their services without examining closely what they were putting up, the issues involved or whether they agreed or disagreed.

The familiar faces of those out in previous demonstrations began to appear, many from the south end.

From my observation, the issues were not clear to them, but the idea of a protest was.

The cycle of a typical Bowling Green demonstration thus began: the protesters putting up their sign, students examining the sign between class break, a mob of people waiting to see if there will be any "action," a few hecklers gathering challenging the protester's right to protest, the organizer sneaking away to watch the progress from a window in the Nest and the News giving the incident front page coverage providing the publicity every protester craves for.

The protesters got their way. The South African flag was taken down. I'm sure it must have been a great victory for those involved in the demonstration.

It is quite obvious that the International Fortnight currently in progress, needs no bad publicity. For this reason and only this reason, the flag was taken down.

There is no reason why a program that will benefit students and allow this University to stand out among others should be marred by such an off-beat, irresponsible group.

For the vast majority of those demonstrating last week, better time could have been spent in a barbershop.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Failure In Fact-Finding

The recent decision by the Interfraternity Judicial Board regarding the two fraternities found guilty of raiding freshmen dorms has brought the now famous "wine incident" back into the news. The Judicial Board has been accused of inconsistencies.

The following is in answer to the Board's feeble attempt in the April 28 BG News to justify its decisions. As President of one of the houses involved in that "alcoholic orgy," I feel our side of the story should be heard.

The Board charges the News with failure to determine the "precise facts" before editorializing on the dorm raids. The Judicial Board, however, did not attempt to uncover the facts in the "wine incident."

In fact, this is largely why an appeal of the original decision by the joint IFC and Pan-Hellenic Judicial Boards resulted in the entire original hearing being thrown out. The original hearing was a lengthy ordeal lasting a grand total of ten minutes.

The two fraternities and one sorority involved entered pleas of "guilty" and no effort was made by the Boards to determine the circumstances. At the retrial of the fraternities by the IFC Board along, a plea of "innocent" was entered in hope that more facts would be brought out. Although the prosecution wasn't able to produce a single witness, the houses were found guilty and were given a sentence even more harsh than previously.

In this decision, no considerations were made considering the fact that only four members of our house were present. Likewise, the Board was not concerned with the fact that these four had no knowledge of the entry of the bottle of cooking wine into the sorority house or that they had nothing to do with serving it or that they had no idea that alcohol was present until they tasted the contents of those small paper cups.

The Board also gives as an excuse for their inconsistency the fact that the dorm raiders are being punished by their respective houses. Of course, everyone knows this will never be carried out. In our case, we never had such an option. Involvement of only four members caused the entire house to be "hanged" (as the News editorial so aptly put it).

As far as the seriousness of the offenses go, the IFC statutes call for social probation of any fraternity found guilty of raiding a freshman dorm. The university rules regarding alcoholic beverages, however, do not make social probation mandatory. The list of possible punishments (almost all of which we received) is preceded by the words "MAY include."

We, as a house, have accepted the punishment resulting from the involvement of four brothers in the "wine incident." However, when we consider that the fraternities guilty of raiding dorms only "got their hands slapped," we cannot help but feel that a great injustice occurred in one of the cases. One case resulted in extreme harshness by the Board while the other resulted in extreme leniency. May Greek unity live forever!

Maturity Deficiency?

What is protest? Is it a game for children to play? Is it a new type of mixed sport?

All people have a right and a privilege to speak out in the United States under our Constitution about almost anything to which they disagree.

I am one of the first to stand up for these rights. I along with many other open-minded students and faculty at BGSU believe that everyone has a right to his or her opinion--be it right or wrong.

When SDS was founded and recognized on our campus, many of us thought this was a positive sign for a progressive university. They seemed to throw light on many problems which had direct interest to us all.

I personally considered them a mature group of young people and faculty that worked diligently for goals which they considered to be a problem. I used the word mature which I now feel inadequate. Immature and childish are much more appropriate.

When vote cards were burned in front of the Union, I like many others laughed but kept quiet. Today, however, I witnessed another one of these, "Organized mature acts," in front of the Union.

A protest against the Union of South Africa's flag. A sign was attached to the flag staff reading on one side, "We protest" and a little note on the other expounding on the segregationist community the flag represented.

Talk went around that they wanted to remove the flag by any means needed. This was halted temporarily when a number of students gathered to protect it from this "mature" group with such high ideals.

I ask what is their purpose for such a display? Is it to label all the students and faculty at Bowling Green as "mature" and "intellectual."

The topper will be when this "mature" group will throw their half and three quarter grown bodies in front of President Jerome at the President's Review.

This is the ultimate of senseless protest. Maybe I've missed the point. I am open for constructive criticism. Is this democracy in action? Could this possibly be protest for protest sake?

Placement Director Seeks Council Seat

James L. Galloway, placement director, is running for the Republican nomination for councilman-at-large in Bowling Green in the primary election today.

Of the four men seeking the Republican nomination for three council seats, Mr. Galloway is the only University staff member.

A 1950 graduate in social administration from the University, Mr. Galloway has always had an interest in the city of Bowling Green.

"Because I have lived in Bowling Green for 15 years, I feel I have a good background of the city," Mr. Galloway said. "I have met businessmen and school people through my position in the Placement Office, and I know many townspeople as well."

Among the improvements Mr. Galloway would like to see in Bowling Green are better parking facilities, shopping areas, sewer systems, traffic flow and urban development. He would also like to see a city park on the east side of town, closer to the University.

"I would like to see better cooperation between merchants in the town and the student body," he commented.

"I do not think drinking cards are necessary. Bars should control their own actions," Mr. Galloway said.

Mr. Galloway has seen beer sold on campus at the University of Wisconsin and says that the privilege was not abused. He favors beer on campus at the University.

An M.A. from Ohio State University, foreign student adviser for five years, veterans' adviser for 10 years, Y.M.C.A. work for five years and director of placement at Bowling Green University are a few of his qualifications. He is presently working toward a Ph.D. in speech.

Students To Vote On Queen, Beer

All students will vote in one central precinct in the May Queen and beer referendum election Thursday, Bill West, Election Board chairman, announced yesterday.

The precinct will be located on the ground floor of University Hall. There will be four registration tables, one for each class, and each student must present only his ID card to vote.

Students may vote from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The beer referendum will give the students a chance to vote on whether they would like to have beer on campus; and if so, where on campus: the Union, the Mid-Am room and/or the Rathskeller.

VISTA Seeks New Recruits

VISTA recruiters will be on the campus next Monday and Tuesday, according to assistant field director Jean Langlie.

VISTA has recently adopted a new, accelerated policy for students who have received their bachelor's degrees or expect to receive them this year. "Our recruiters will now be able to invite qualified students to training programs while they are on campus," said Miss Langlie.

More than 75 per cent of VISTA Volunteers are drawn from college campuses. This year VISTA will recruit and train 4,500 Volunteers to serve in more than 300 projects from coast to coast and in Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Student Charged With Assault

However, nothing happened. Mayor Skibbie said he met with two students, one of whom admitted he had begun organizing a demonstration, but realized it would do no good.

Both of these students, who were not identified, played a major role in preventing any disturbance, Mayor Skibbie said.

The mayor said that later in the week he will ask Wallace W. Taylor, dean of men, to select a group of students who feel they have legitimate complaints concerning student-police relations.

This group will meet with him to discuss the situation, the mayor explained.

Efforts to locate the brown station wagon which blocked the driveway have not been successful, the mayor said. Officials hope the driver can provide more information about the incident.

Mayor Skibbie met Sunday with Donato's father to show him all the reports and records of the case.

He said Mr. Donato's only comment was that some of the reports were different than he had been told by some persons.

Police also are investigating the source of the liquor found in the motel room and whether or not minors were at the party.

Ohio State University

Four thousand students were reported using LSD while on the Ohio State campus. The campus newspaper for Tuesday, April 16 claimed as its source a male graduate student named John who previously had taught junior high school in Cleveland.

John was reported as being a user and a pusher who had taken 12 university students on a trip and knew 4000 other students on campus who had used the drug.

The executive dean of students, John T. Bonner, Jr., was reported in the Lantern of Wednesday, April 17 as saying that "far less than 50" Ohio State students have ever used LSD.

Robert Taylor, head of the Columbus Vice Squad, claimed that a narcotics problem did exist, however, on both the university campus and the city.

We've Been Everywhere Else ...

Why Not The Zoo?

By LINDA HERBKERSMAN
Feature Writer

Paul Simon must have had some reason for writing, "Something tells me it's all happening at the zoo. I do believe it; I do believe it's true."

It's a top ten song by Simon & Garfunkel. Something must have prompted it.

Does the answer lie in the Toledo Zoo?

"You can take a cross-town bus..." You can't, so drive. There's no charge for parking. "...if it's raining or it's cold..." It probably will be, but much of the zoo is housed in several buildings anyway.

"...and the animals will love it if you do." Actually they're sort of indifferent about it. But there is a great deal happening at the zoo.

The Toledo Zoo first opened in 1939 and was built as a part of the WPA. One building, The Reptilia, was built entirely by hand from parts of other buildings which were being torn down. Now, any money the zoo takes in is used toward its expansion--and it is expanding.

There are several entrances to the zoo, each stocked with a fleet of baby strollers, and one leads directly to the outdoor monkey cage.

"The monkeys stand for honesty..."

The monkeys don't stand for anything. They give a good show for those who want to take pictures, then they hang a hairy arm between the bars of the cage waiting for a handout. In addition to this outdoor cage, more monkeys are housed in a large building. It is in this building that you encounter the orangutan.

"Orangutans are skeptical of changes in their cages..."

Uh...skeptical isn't exactly the word. Apathetic? Apathetic. The Toledo Zoo's two orangutans have three major pastimes: eating, sleeping, and watching people watch them.

"The elephants are kindly, but they're dumb..."

Agreed. They "kindly" pose for pictures near a small machine. "Five cents for special animal food," then stand there with their mouths open. If you do throw food, you've got to hit the elephant dead center in the mouth or he ignores it. Kindly, but, uh, dumb.

"Zebras are reactionaries, antelopes are missionaries, the zookeeper is very fond of rum..."

There is no evidence of any of this.

Though there is no charge for admission to the zoo, there are other ways to spend money. Along with refreshment stands, souvenir stands, and a cafeteria, there are also rides--twenty cents for the merry-go-round and the helicopter, and a quarter for the Safari Train which takes you on a short tour of the zoo.

Food to feed the animals is five cents a bag, and fifty cents will buy a life time Elephant Key for the talking boxes.

These boxes outside most of the cages contain recordings of information about the animals.

If you stand near a father with three or four kids, you can probably get the same information and save the cost of a key. The information may just be a little longer in coming.

"Now this is...come back here. Now this is ...leave your sister

To
The

For all those who now have the urge to go to visit the animals at the Toledo Zoo, here are the simple directions on how to get there.

Take Route 25 North to the intersection where Routes 23 and 25 go right and where Routes 24 and 25 go left. Take the left (Routes 24 and 25) across the bridge.

Proceed to Maumee, and at the fifth traffic light in Maumee turn right onto the Anthony Wayne Trail Expressway (Route 24).

Drive about three miles and you will see a sign which announces the Toledo Zoo entrance 1000 feet ahead.

alone. Now this is...If you don't settle down, I'll take you right home. Now this is..."

The kids can be as entertaining as the animals. Take for instance, the 4-year-old boy who watched a peacock open the full span of its tail, then yelled, "Hey mom! Come 'n' look at this pigeon!"

And what memories are brought back by the following conversation:

"Mom, I'm hungry."

"Then we'll go right home and eat."

"I'm not hungry for anything we've got at home."

The zoo has an outdoor amphitheater, and an indoor theater, refreshments, and souvenirs, paths to walk on and rides to ride on, free parking, free admission, free picnic facilities, pooped fathers and indefatigable kids, animals in buildings, animals in cages, and animals that'll walk along next to you.

The Toledo Zoo opens 365 days a year at 10 a.m.

Paul Simon must have been there one of those days.

"What a gas! You've got to come and see it at the zoo-o-o. At the zoo-o-o. At the..."

Councils Pass Beer Bills At OU, Marshall

The issue of beer on campus has been answered affirmatively at two MAC universities.

Both the Student Congress at Ohio University and the Student Senate at Marshall University have voted to allow beer on their respective campuses.

At Ohio University the proposal suggests that 3.2 beer be allowed in dormitories with "The time and place to be approved by the Student Activities Board," according to the Post.

Vice President James Whalen had discussed the proposal with council members for one year and accepted the proposal when it was passed by council. He was expected to present the proposal before their Board of Trustees last week.

Marshall University Student Senate members unanimously passed a portion of their beer proposal following one hour and 35 minutes of debate.

New Space Allotted On Basis Of Needs

"Critical needs are accommodated first," said Dr. Donald C. Lelong, director of Institutional Research and Planning for the University, in answer to the question of how departments are given priority for new academic buildings.

Three main factors determine a department's needs for facilities. "Adequacy of existing facilities" is one of the factors stated Dr. Lelong. This refers to cramped teaching conditions or below average work conditions of a department.

The second factor is "consideration of new graduate programs for a department." The planned psychology building is in part a result of the recent approval of a doctoral program for that department. "Additional and quite specialized programs will be needed for the department due to new doctoral program," he said.

The "nature of space itself" is the final factor taken into consideration. "High priority tends to be given to departments which need specialized space, such as laboratories, as opposed to those needing just classrooms," Dr. Lelong said.

To estimate the future needs of departments, Dr. Lelong uses the estimates for enrollment or class hours that are in the plans for the University when it has 15,000 and 30,000 students.

These figures are by areas, such as humanities or education, and are not by departments. His office bases the needs on current enrollment in departments and projections on enrollment in the future.

The estimates for the faculty and staff of areas are added to the enrollment, then the University is in a position to project the classrooms, laboratories, and faculty office space needed.

"Classroom and office space is the easiest to determine, but laboratory space is very difficult, due to the unscheduled lab work done, especially by graduate students. Some guessing is required for laboratory space," Dr. Lelong admitted.

The Capital Budget Council, comprised of University officials, reviews recommendations of Dr. Lelong's office and the Academic Space Committee. The council is concerned with state appropriations to the University for capital improvements. It sends its recommendations to President Jerome for final approval.

The Academic Space Committee advises the president and Provost Paul F. Leedy on allocating space of existing buildings. Made up of academic deans and certain faculty members, this committee acts to compromise among various departments who wish more space for themselves. Departments "always need more space than we have," said Dr. Lelong.

After the priorities are approved by all channels, they are sent to the Board of Regents. The board usually agrees with the priorities, according to Dr. Lelong. Then it will allot a certain amount of money to the University and will leave it up to the University to build what and how many buildings it desires.

Flags Removed; 'Union Jack' Stolen Saturday

The international flags that were displayed in front of the Union as part of International Fortnight have been removed as a result of the Union Jack, national flag of Britain, the International Center reported yesterday.

Neil Olson, English student, said the flag was reported stolen sometime Saturday night. Campus police reported finding the flagpole abandoned near the Life Science Bldg.

Olson urged the person or persons taking the flag to return it to him or the International Center. "No questions will be asked," Olson said. "The flag is on loan from the British consulate in Cleveland."

Violence Starts, Love-In Ends

DETROIT (AP)-- A honeymoon of hippies, motorcyclists, police and hangers-on at Detroit's first so-called "love-in" lasted seven hours yesterday.

Then the marriage went on the rocks, with nine persons injured by flying rocks or bottles and two persons arrested for assault and inciting to riot.

Police said a crowd estimated at upwards of 2,000 swore at, taunted and hurled bricks and bottles at officers Sunday night.

The violence came at the end of the love-in on Belle Isle in the Detroit River.

The gathering was sponsored by Detroit's hip or beatnik community to demonstrate good will and brotherhood. An estimated 5,000 took part.

World Wire Red Chinese Claim U.S. Air Intrusion

SAIGON (AP)--The growing air war over North Vietnam drew a fresh charge from Communist China yesterday. The Reds said their air force shot down two American planes over Chinese territory, but did not give a specific location.

The Chinese said the planes had intruded into Kwangsi Province, which borders North Vietnam.

COLUMBUS (AP)-- Governor Rhodes urged business and industry leaders yesterday to support the Ohio Bond Commission proposal in today's election.

The Governor took time out from a 15-stop tour of the state by plane to address the second annual "Billion Dollar Club."

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The House Commerce Committee has approved overwhelmingly a 47-day delay in the threatened nationwide rail strike. The committee voted 22-2 in favor of the extension asked by President Johnson.

3 Records Set At Penn Relays

By GREG VARLEY
Assistant Sports Editor

Not too bad.

Entered in only six events at the Penn Relays this past weekend, the Falcon cindermen returned with three school records, barely missed another and generally lowered all other times.

With the kind of competition they faced in the City of Brotherly Love, the Birds had little choice.

The meet, which is divided into the college and Championship of America divisions, found most of the toughest teams in the country putting in an appearance.

With the team racked by injuries and ineligibilities, coach Mel Brodt went with only nine men who entered in the discus, pole vault, steeplechase and three relay events.

Rob Bennett, who has been slowly raising his outdoor height in the pole vault, entered the invitational competition which included some of the top vaulters in the nation, and more than held his own.

The sophomore soared to a 15-foot mark to set a new Bowling Green record and break the existing record set by himself at Miami, and tied by Bruce Bary at Toledo.

The discus was the only other field event entered by the Falcons and Reardon came through in good form. He tossed the plate 158-3 to gain a third place in the college division and ninth place overall.

The first six competitors after the qualifying heats are placed in what is known as the Championship of America.

Looking to the other event which involved only one individual, Dan Sekerak put one more BG record on the board with a 9:39.4 effort in the steeplechase.

The relay events, which have been the mainstay of Bowling Green track events for the past few meets, also produced good results.

In fact Mel Brodt has become so informed on the subject of relay teams that he has written an article for Scholastic Coach on that very subject.

The article may prove to be of enlightenment to other coaches as the Brodt-coached teams set a school record in the four mile relay and lowered their times in both the distance medley and the two-mile relay.

Brodt relay teams have been among the best in the country, as was evidenced by the fifth place the mile relay team took in the NCAA finals last year.

Paul Talkington gave an excellent performance in the four-mile relay as he turned in a 4:14.7 in his mile leg which is about 20 seconds faster than any time he had in high school.

In the first leg of the two mile relay, Ken Kelly ran his best 880 with a 1:54.8 timing.

As a team the four-mile runners pushed for a 17:16.8 and a ninth place in the meet. The place that the team finished in, and the fact that they set a school record more than indicates the strength of the opposition that was in Philadelphia.

This year was the first time that the meet was run on a tartan track, similar to the one now being installed here.

For the Falcons, the wait to find out the record capability of their new track is not long in the offing, as they will take on Central Michigan here next Saturday.

Frosh Stickers Fall To Wooster

By GARY DAVIS
Sports Writer

A disastrous second period spelled defeat for the freshman lacrosse team Saturday as they dropped a 10-9 decision to the Scots of Wooster College. The loss is the second for the Falcon frosh in four outings, while the hosts finished their season 3-0-1.

The Wooster Club team composed of stickers from all grade levels, posted an earlier season win over Ohio University's varsity and recently tied the powerful junior varsity of Kenyon. The Scots, however, called the Falcons their best competition of the season.

The Scots' head coach was highly impressed with the Falcons power and especially the attack unit. BG frosh coach Mike Katon also lauded the performance of the attack and went on to comment, "without a doubt it was our strongest second half performance yet."

Katon was referring to the Falcons' 3-1 second half margin that almost neutralized the 9-6 bulge, Wooster had racked up in the first two periods.

The frosh, who arrived late for the contest, took the field after a very short warmup. Off to a shaky start, it appeared that the Falcons had finally settled down as the second period got underway. Wooster, however, exploded for six goals in the action, benefited greatly by seven Falcon penalties. The Scots unleashed a 23 shot barrage at the BG cords while the frosh could retaliate with only seven.

The scoring in the contest for the Falcons was spread among four stickers with Joe Zimmerman and Jack Ross leading the way with three each. John Dohms added two tallies and Jack Thompson one. Both Thompson and Dohms were credited with an assist.

Wooster held a slim 51-49 margin in the shooting department, on the strength of the 23 shots in the second quarter. The Falcons as part of their second half comeback, lofted 19 shots along in the third period. Ross led the Falcons in the match with 17 shots followed by Zimmerman with 10 and Thompson with nine.

Oddly enough the Falcons earned a 38-23 edge in groundballs, a department usually captured by the winning team. Zimmerman led here with seven, Phil Green second with five. Bob Delvecchio and John Bruens each had four to round out the list of leaders.

Defense was not evidenced until the third and fourth quarters. While both goalies racked up saves at a fast rate, a total of 15 shots penetrated the nets. Glenn Voss and Bill Burch combined for 26 Falcon saves as compared to 22 for the Scots.

The frosh who always seem to start out behind, did so again as the hosts tallied 42 seconds after the match started. A goal by Zimmerman tied the score at 3:50, but Wooster came back to score again at 8:24. Jack Ross tossed in a pair of goals to hand the Falcons their first lead with 12 seconds left.

It was a shortlived lead, however, when the Scots roared back to tally with only six seconds left in the quarter.

The crushing blow dealt the Falcons during the match was a series of four straight goals by the Wooster stickers in the second period. They routed the BG defense for a goal a minute, scoring at 1:45, 2:17, 3:06 and 4:41. Thompson temporarily halted the surge by scoring five seconds later after winning a faceoff.

Wooster appeared unmoved by the tally coming back at 5:52 to up their lead to 8-4. Ross and Zimmerman attempted to close the gap with goals, but once again the Falcons relaxed and the Scots scored with only seven seconds remaining in the half.

Down by a 9-6 count, the Falcon stickers went on to blank the Scots in the third period, but could manage only one goal. Zimmerman tossed in his third of the afternoon to cut the margin to 9-7.

The Scots broke their scoring lapse with a tally at 4:24 of the final quarter and it proved to be the winning margin. Bowling Green battled back to pull within one of the Scots on a pair of goals by Dohms.

Saturday's Game Washed Out

Baseball Team Nips Irish

Netters Defeat Herd, 9-0

Bowling Green's tennis squad turned in its top performance of the season against Marshall Friday, and walked off with a 9-0 win.

As the score indicates, no one on the Falcon lineup lost, and most of the scores were by decisive margins.

Sophomore Mike Miller, the team's number one man, got things off on the right foot as he topped the Herd's Tom McClure by 6-0 and 6-3 counts.

Ron Carroll took Craig Wolverton 6-0, 6-2, Bob Lempert beat Doug Warner with the same two scores, and Trevor Weiss put together a pair of 6-4 verdicts to triumph over Tom Chadwick.

John Fox took a 6-1 and a 6-0 set from Mike Johnson and Gunter Herold wound up the singles play with a win over Keith Blankenship, 6-2, 6-1.

In doubles action, Carroll and Lempert defeated McClure and Wolverton, 6-2 and 6-1. Miller and Herold teamed up to dump the Marshall duo of Warner and Chadwick with scores of 6-2 and 6-3.

In the final doubles match, Weiss and Dan Norris combined to snare a win.

A scheduled weekend series with Notre Dame turned into a one-game affair, as BG tripped the Irish 6-4 in Friday's game, then saw Saturday's contest float away with the rain that hit South Bend.

Jim Leininger started for Bowling Green Friday and worked through the opening four frames before Doug Huwer came in to relieve.

Notre Dame got the jump in the scoring parade, as it shelled Leininger with four runs on three hits.

Shortstop John Rogers led things off by drawing a walk, and moved to second on a single by catcher Joe Kernan.

The pitcher, Bob Arzan, helped his own cause by punching a single to score the first run of the game.

Tom Tencza, the second baseman, advanced the runners on a sacrifice. Then Bob Kosmalski doubled bringing both home, putting the score at 3-0.

A fielder's choice pushed the inning's final run across, as Huwer entered the game and put the side out.

For Bowling Green, the offense wouldn't generate until the top of the fifth, when Warren Baird managed a walk. Roger Doty took first on a fielder's choice attempt that fell apart when an error allowed both runners to reach base safely.

Back-to-back singles by Huwer and centerfielder Bob White chased home Baird, giving the Falcons their first tally.

Bowling Green tied the game on a trio of runs scored in the sixth. Bill Becker opened with a single, but was erased when Dan Godby hit into a fielder's choice.

Ted Rose singled to advance Godby, and Russ Hagerty scored both on a single, and moved to second on the throw.

Hagerty then stole third, and scored on a squeeze play executed by Baird.

That knotted the count at 4 all.

The scored stayed tied until the Falcons' half of the ninth, when third baseman Chuck Wagner walked and stole second, then scored on Bill Becker's single.

Becker advanced on a fielder's choice, and scored on a single by Rose.

Russ Jacques, who entered the game in the seventh as a relief pitcher, opened the ninth by walking the first batter he faced.

He settled down to nail the next three who faced him and got credit for the win.

The victory puts BG's season mark at 14-5-1; while its MAC record stays at 4-2.

For Notre Dame, the loss marked their first defeat at home for 1967, and lowers its season slate to 9-4.
